

Leonore M. Greller holds a Bachelor of Science in Business Administration, a Master of Arts in Culture and Communication from NYU, a Juris Doctor Cardozo Law School and is a Candidate in Sociology (Sociological and Political Communication) at the Graduate Center of CUNY. She was admitted to the NYS Bar in 1985, the Southern and Eastern District Courts in 1988 and to the Florida Bar in 2010; and remains in good standing. She is a Florida Supreme Court Certified County (2017), Circuit Civil (2010) and Family Mediator (2010), and a Florida Qualified Arbitrator since 2011. In addition, she has Residential Foreclosure Mediation Training (2010) and Traffic Hearing Officer Training (2012).

Leonore has over thirty years experience as a civil litigator and negotiator in commercial, contract, residential and commercial insurance damage (first property loss, mitigation) and family law. She has litigated, arbitrated, facilitated and negotiated more than one thousand simple and complex cases. She serves as a neutral Arbitrator and Mediator on pre-litigation and litigation of foreclosure (and GAL), insurance, RV Lemon Law, Class Action Settlements, consumer, commercial and breach of contract cases. She has taught negotiation skills and communication and cultural diversity at the university level in New York City and to lawyers and university students internationally. Leonore shares her strategic skills, knowledge and experience with young lawyers and law students, contributing not only as a mentor but also judging both Lower and Upper Moot Court and AAJ SAC Competitions. She is a guest speaker at mediation and trial advocacy classes at local law schools and has twice been a speaker at the Broward County Bar Association (BCBA) Bench and Bar Convention. A former officer of North Broward Bar Association, a past Member of the BCBA ADR, Professionalism and Pro Se Committees, Secretary of the BCBA Bench and Bar Sub-Committee (2016-2022), Leonore uses her education and experience to focus, to listen to and to understand the positions and interests of the parties.
